The New Standard.

A smart, networking vehicle, fitted with the newest communication technology.

Built on the most modern van platform currently available.

Mobile command vehicles by Bösenberg. That always meant: highest variability combined with ease of mind during operation. With our newest concept (available 2017) we raise the bar even higher. A smart CAN bus-enabled Mastervolt® electrical power system and bright full LED lighting build the basis.

All radio communications and even the phone system are operated through LARDIS® touchscreens. The results are ergonomic workplaces that reduce stress during operation. Every critical component is built fail safe to ensure communication under every circumstance.

Flexible storage systems with slide outs at the workplaces and in the storage area complete the vehicle.

Ergonomic and networked workplaces with LARDIS® touchscreens plus conventional phone stations. Two PCs with operation support software and internet access through LTE.

Seats with multiple adjustment options and M1 mark for use during normal driving

Rear shelving with heavy duty slide out, standard boxes, flashing lights, pylons etc.

More storage between the two workplaces

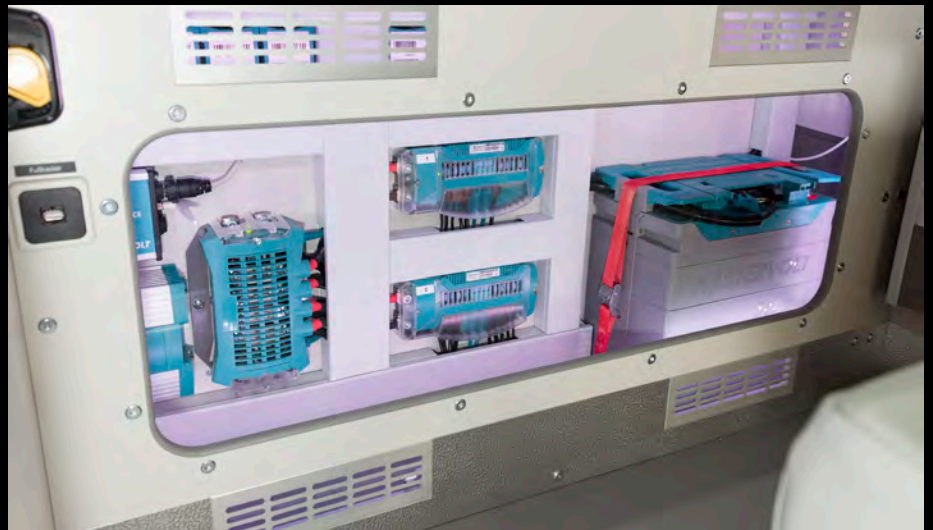

Operation and monitoring of the electrical system through the in-dash touchscreen.

Hansch DBS 4000 incl. additional flashers, area lighting and Martin-Horn system

Hansch DBS 4000 incl. turn signals, rear flashers and area lighting

Mastervolt® power supply with a lithium-ion battery, Mass Combi (charger and inverter in the same housing), charge booster and Masterbus control units.
